Hobbies/Interests outside Rallycross:

[TIP] This page is your chance to shine and get your points across the Rallycross community and make yourself known to potential fans and sponsors.

Don't worry too much about spelling and grammar – Your information will be professionally formatted to ensure you get the message across in the best possible way.

Section two – Your Rallycross/Motorsport history

Information about your Rallycross history (e.g. “Started watching Rallycross aged 10 and got my license as soon as I could and for my first event I hired a Stock Hatch 205, since then I.....”, etc)

Section three – Your Rallycross/Motorsport achievements

Information about your Rallycross achievements (note, this can be anything you like, for example “5th overall junior cadet Karts 2005, 1st MSA BRC SuperModified, Lydden 2006” or even “This is my first year in Rallycross and I intend to get a couple of podiums”) – Use bullet points if you prefer.

[TIP] It is essential that you plug your sponsors correctly – Make sure that what you put here is factual, E.g. suggesting “Bobs Tyres are the best tyre company in the world” may not be correct but an alternative statement “Bobs Tyres are one of the leading Tyre and Exhaust fitting companies in East Anglia” is more generalised and less direct.

Section four – Your Sponsors and Partners

Information about your sponsors: (e.g. “Bob’s Tyres – www.bobstyres.com are based in Suffolk and have a huge range of tyres and provide excellent customer service”) Don’t worry about your sponsors logo’s yet, we can source those later. If your sponsor doesn’t have a website you could put their contact details instead.

[TIP] The information you provide here will give Rallycross fans and website visitors a greater insight into the technical aspect of the sport. Try to be as detailed as possible without getting too in depth, e.g. “Reiger Gas Adjustable suspension, with 2.5 degrees camber and 12.43mm of toe-out” might be a little o.t.t, whereas “Reiger Gas Adjustable” will be fine.
